

Memo

December 8, 2006

The Justice Administrative Commission received the funds to pay court appointed counsel and related due process vendors today. The Justice Administrative Commission has been working the Department of Financial Services this week, and a plan was developed to coordinate the delivery and rapid processing of these vouchers. At this time, all vouchers are at the Department of Financial Services. Based upon the plan outlined by the Department of Financial Services, they anticipate many warrants will be printed as early as Monday, December 11, 2006. The JAC will be mailing those warrants Monday afternoon. We appreciate your patience during this situation, but hope that the information provided will alleviate some of your concerns. It is our utmost priority to process and deliver payment for services rendered as soon as possible.
